"Muhammad bin Sirin al-Azdi, he is one of the Mu'tazilite scholars and theologians, is the first 'alim of his time, and a great writer on fiqh. "Ahmad ibn Hanbal, the first great Sunni scholar, is the founder of Hanbalite fiqh and is considered the "father of Sunni theology" (Al-Shatibi would be the "father of Sunni theology"). "Babar is the founder of the Hanbalite School of Islamic Jurisprudence. He is also called al-Qaim al-Akbar; the renowned physician and physicist who translated the Tanbih from Arabic to Persian (which is the language of medicine) and who was the founder of the Al-Jahiz Academy for Persian language and literature. He also contributed to the great Tanbih al-sihah, which is a summary of the entire Quran, according to the Sunni tradition. "Al-Battani al-Fudayl Ibn Ma`mar, is the most notable of the Mu'tazilite jurists, founder of the Ibn Abi al-Dunyas (sometimes transliterated Ibn Abi al-Dunyat). Al-Battani al-Fudayl distinguished himself not only by his legal methods but also by his theological doctrines and his knowledge of Hadith.
